

Wallflowers.

Wall-flowers, wall - flow - ers, grow - ing up so high. We are all la - dies and we shall all die, ex - - cept - ing lit - tle [name -] and she's the youn - gest child.
She can hop and she can skip and she can turn the wheel so quick. Turn your back you sau - cy Jack and say no more to me. For if you do I'll cut you in two and hang you to a tree.

Source: Sung by children at Stow-on-the-Wold. Collected by Cecil Sharp on July 29th 1909.

Notes: Ring with joined hands. At 'hop' and 'skip' suit action to word.

At 'Turn your back' the named one turns backward in the ring.

Finally all have backs turned when game begins again.
