

King George

4. The mill - - er he got drowned in the well. The — wea - ver got hanged in his yarn, — and the de - vil ran a - way with the li - ttle tai - lor with the broad — cloth un - der his arm.

1. [In good King George's time, he was a merry king]
There was three boys turned out of doors because they would not sing.
2. The first was a miller, the second a weaver
And the third was a little tailor [three jolly rogues together].
3. The miller he stole cloth, and the weaver he stole yarn
And the little tailor he stole broadcloth for to keep the three rogues warm.
4. The miller he got drowned in the well, the weaver got hanged in the yarn
And the devil ran away with the little tailor with the broadcloth under his arm.

Source: Henry Corbett (61) at Snowhill. Collected by Cecil Sharp 9th April 1909.

Notes: The version collected by Sharp from Mr Collett was incomplete so it has been augmented here from other versions. The added words are in square brackets.